Riddles

1. A murderer is condemned to death. He has to choose between three rooms. The first is full of raging fires, the second is full of assassins with loaded guns, and the third is full of lions that haven't eaten in 3 years. Which is the safest for him?
2. A woman shoots her husband. Then she holds him under water for over 5 minutes. Finally, she hangs him. But 5 minutes later they both go out together and enjoy a wonderful dinner together. How can this be?

It's a Dog's Life

One afternoon, a lady was in the backyard gardening, when an old, tired-looking dog wandered into her yard. The lady could tell from its collar and well-fed belly that it had a home.

When the lady walked into the house the dog followed her, sauntering down the hall to a corner where it plopped down and fell asleep. An hour later, the dog went to the door, and the lady let him out.

The next day the dog was back. It resumed its position in the hallway corner and slept for an hour. This continued for several weeks.

Curious, the lady pinned a note to its collar: "Every afternoon your dog comes to my house for a nap."

The next day the dog arrived with a different note pinned to its collar: "He lives in a home with ten children - he's trying to catch up on some sleep."

LOST IN TRANSLATION

Sally, during her nurse's training at a hospital, had little money for meals, so she often resorted to the food provided at the hospital complex, even though she had a great disliking for the bland taste the food seemed to contain. Sally often took her breaks in the kitchen, and sometimes kindly visitors would give her some of the treats they had brought for patients who had not wanted to eat them. One night a British woman brought a pie to the kitchen and said to Sally, "Would you eat this up, love?" Another student and Sally devoured every delicious crumb! Soon their benefactor returned, however, and asked, "Is me 'usband's pie 'ot yet, dearie?"

BARTERING

A small boy was looking at the red ripe tomatoes growing in a farmer's garden. "I'll give you my two pennies for that tomato," said the boy to the farmer, pointing to a beautiful, large, ripe fruit hanging on the vine. "No," said the farmer, "I get a dime for a tomato like that one." The small boy pointed to a smaller green one, "Will you take two pennies for that one?" "Yes," replied the farmer, "I'll give you that one for two cents." "OK," said the small boy, sealing the deal by placing his coins in the farmer's hand, "I'll pick it up in about a week."

Snakes Game

Where to play: Anywhere - makes a great car game.
Number of players: 2 or more.
Supplies: Paper, pencils, 2 dice.
How to play:
 Each player has a piece of paper and a pencil to write the numbers 2 through 12 down, leaving out the number 7.
 Take turns throwing 2 dice and adding the numbers together. Cross off that sum on your list of numbers. If you throw a seven, you must draw a snake on your page. When you have 7 snakes, you are out.
 The winner is either the first to cross off all the sums, or the last to make 7 snakes.
